THIERRY FEUZ | EVERGLADES | November 16 – December 16 |

Kashya Hildebrand Gallery is pleased to present an exhibition by Geneva-based painter Thierry Feuz. Everglades features the artist's most recent body of work, which blurs the boundaries between natural and artificial forms. Mr. Feuz's paintings illustrate botanical abstractions exploring nature's life cycle. The artist welcomes the viewer into a tropical scenery: "You have entered into a landscape of a strange, humid, wet, and dangerous life." The viewer is led through a timeless Eden-esque garden, and taken on a journey of organic life, exploring nature through a microscopic view. What at first glance appears to be a petal losing its consistency, suddenly transforms itself into an exploding drop of vanishing colors; an insect becomes a cluster of small spirals, bubbles, and sequins.

Each painting is filled with vibrant energy created by the magnificent color palette. The artist draws inspiration for his energetic colors from everyday life. Experimenting with the process itself and exploring the limits of his materials and colors, often becomes the central theme of his works. The artist is a true Master of his lacquer and enamel technique, accomplishing a unique signature style.

Mr. Feuz studied at the Ecole Superior des Beaux Arts in Geneva. His work has been exhibited internationally at galleries in Berlin, Brussels, Geneva, New York, Paris, San Francisco and Zurich. Most recently he exhibited at the National Academy of Science, Washington, D.C.
